

INVITATION

The Institute of Bankers in South Africa invites you to a networking breakfast function.

Join Sean Wisedale, an intrepid adventurer who is the first South African to have conquered the highest peaks on all seven continents, as he thrills you with funny yet motivational stories of his adventures.

Venue: Riverside Conference Centre, Durban North
Date: 30th October 2008
Time: 7h30 – 9h30
RSVP: Wendy on wendyd@iob.co.za or (011) 481 7019 before 23rd of October 2008.

Sean has a great passion for sea and mountains. He is best known for summiting the highest peaks on all seven continents. He has made a living from his passions, working as an adventure-related documentary maker for Carte Blanche and other highly regarded networks such as Discovery and National Geographic.

He is a highly regarded speaker, using humour and the deadly seriousness of conquering the planet's highest points. His drive and passion are clear for all to see. He climbed three of the highest in just six months in 2003, starting with Mount Everest in May, Russia's Mount Elbrus in August and then Carstensz Pyramid in Indonesia in October. In 1997, he traversed the Amazon River from source to mouth on a hydrospeed, which is little more than a boogie board with compartments, following fellow explorer Mike Horn.
